

I am against this project. The power companies can not maintain their equipment to deliver reliable power service and their lines are already a source of inteference. They lack the technical expertise to solve their current simple problems. BPL is going to be a bigger problem. Let them learn how to stay in the power business and not try to play telephone company!